CANDIDATE LECTURE
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, EAST AFRICA-INDIAN OCEAN

“TECHNOLOGY AND RACIAL NATIONALISM IN UGANDA, 1959-1972”

EDGAR TAYLOR
University of Michigan

JANUARY 24
4 PM | BUNCHE 6275
HISTORY CONFERENCE ROOM

Edgar Taylor is a historian of urban protest, social intimacy, and racial politics in twentieth century East Africa. His current book project examines racial nationalism and urban life in Uganda since the 1940s. He has worked as an external archivist in four Ugandan government archives since 2011. Edgar is presently a postdoctoral fellow in the Department of Historical Studies at the University of Johannesburg, prior to which he was a postdoc in the Centre for Indian Studies in Africa at the University of the Witwatersrand. He has a doctorate from the University of Michigan’s program in Anthropology and History as well as a master’s degree from Makerere University’s Department of History.