

BOOK TALK:

COVERED WITH NIGHT: A STORY OF MURDER AND INDIGENOUS JUSTICE IN EARLY AMERICA

TUESDAY
FEB 24TH, 4:00PM

6275 BUNCHE HALL

NICOLE EUSTACE

Nicole Eustace is an American historian who won the 2022 Pulitzer Prize for History for Covered with Night: A Story of Murder and Indigenous Justice in Early America and was a finalist for the 2021 National Book Award for Nonfiction. She is Silver Family Professor of History at New York University, where she directs the Atlantic History Workshop. Eustace was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in 2025.

UCLA

Meyer and Renee Luskin

Department of History

UCLA

College | Social Sciences

American Indian Studies

With the support of the Joyce Appleby Endowed Chair of America in the World, Carla Pestana.